PCT/DE 96/01376
Objection to subjects P1 to P6 of USPTO note 09/125445 of 04/07/99

Dear Sirs,

04/29/99

Excuse me for not being able to identify the name on the attached note 09/125445. Preferably, it should be written in block letters. Please forward all correspondences to me for the purpose of quick response and fax/phone me in the future if you have questions. The detour from my parents to me consumed time.

I am absolutely sure of having submitted to you two copies of translation (attached A), drawings, documents (A1), declaration of inventor (A2), which can be replaced by (A3) and other. As evidence the CIPO has no objection to the similar submission (AC) and has issued an confirmation (AC1).

Obviously, I have to submit again those documents, other docs and to thoroughly explain you the legend of DE 19530219 A1.

Ref. to P2 the DE 19530219 A1 (B), which as an official patent application is stored in a CD-ROM and can be read in any Patent Office for validation, had to be subdivided into five patent appls. The filing no 19530219 in its filing form (F) is the reference number written in all five forms (F1 to F5), in one (F1) DE 19629979 of which the invention "Seitenairbag-Ersatzsystem (Sideairbag-substitute)" is denoted. If you read the translation (BE) of DE 19530219 A1 you will discover the necessity for subdivision. Based on the DE 19629979 (subdivided DE 19530219 A1), the PCT/DE 96/01376 was filed in. This document and International Examination Report consisting of 49 pages are attached as (B1) and the translation as (B1E).

The European Patent Office, having granted Patent thereon, has published the EP 0844939 B1 (G) and a Certificate (G1). The British Patent Office has already validated the translation (GE) as well as the German, Austrian, Swiss as well as French Patent Office (see country designation). You would agree with that I, having already submitted the docs, have not committed falsification.

I do admit it is not easy to trace the legend thereof due to German language.

Concerning the new submission, inserted in an envelope marked with "NEW SUBMISSION", I have made small amendments (D) and am aware of the claims, which comply with all European Patent Standards, but not with USPTO. However, I will rewrite them after I have a hearing with Mr Jason Morrow of the Group Art Unit 3612 who is willing to teach of how to rewrite the Claims of my Patent Appl. No. 08/860,182.

If you need more information I can drop at your office at that day.
Thank you in advance.

kind regards

Go
